

A New Approach

Re "Bitter irony of revolutions" (Victor Davis Hanson, June 11):
The U.S.A. had a black president and Americans were told hope and change would follow. But it didn't. Political correctness shapes behaviour. Now, police have been killed on the job both in Canada and U.S.A. Some cops, unfortunately, are criminally violent with perpetrators. Is the solution to abolish the police? Clearly both south and north of the border a new approach is indicated. Hanson outlines the irony of revolution that 42. We all need police protection, but we do not ask for cruelty and killing over marginal and non-violent infractions. Surely our species has evolved enough to make the needed change without throwing the baby out with the bathwater.

Larry Sylvester
Acton, Ontario

Torontosun.com, 2020

Tekst 11 A New Approach

---

- 'A New Approach' (title)
- 1p 41 What would this 'new approach' come down to, according to the text?
- A reconstructing the relationship between the general public and law enforcers
  - B redirecting the focus of communities from social division towards racial equality
  - C re-examining the influence of government leaders on the implementation of regulations
  - D repairing the detrimental effects of controversial and complex legislation
- 1p 42 Which of the following fits the gap?
- A 'you can't always get what you want'
  - B 'you can't judge a book by its cover'
  - C 'you can't keep a good man down'
  - D 'you can't win from the powers that be'

---

Bronvermelding

Een opsomming van de in dit examen gebruikte bronnen, zoals teksten en afbeeldingen, is te vinden in het bij dit examen behorende correctievoorschrift.